Subject's extra information

The subject of Research Methods in social media marketing is framed in the module of marketing research methods, together with the subjects of Advanced Quantitative Methods of Marketing Analysis and Advanced Qualitative Methods of Marketing Analysis.

This subject wants to guide the student in the process of scientific writing and provide useful tools and knowledge for information management in the search for social media marketing.

Learning objectives

This course aims to guide the student in the process of scientific writing as well as provide the necessary instruments in the process of information management for the search, while acquiring the necessary theory and practice that allows him to achieve the following objectives:

- Acquire the skills and techniques of obtaining and using information for scientific research.
- Know the possibilities offered by different sources of scientific information.
- Deepen the sources of information on topics related to digital marketing and social networks and the topic chosen for research.
- Create a personal database with the information resources collected throughout the course that will serve as a documentary source for your work.

Competences

Basic

CB1 Possess and understand knowledge that provides a basis or opportunity to be original in the development and / or application of ideas, often in a search context.

CB2 Know how to apply the knowledge acquired and have the capacity to solve problems in new or little-known environments within broader (or multidisciplinary) contexts related to your area of study.

CB3 Being able to integrate knowledge and face the complexity of making judgments based on information that, being incomplete or limited, includes reflections on social and ethical responsibilities linked to the application of their knowledge and judgments.

CB4 Know how to communicate their conclusions - and the ultimate knowledge and reasons that support them - to specialized and non-specialized audiences in a clear and unambiguous way.

CB5 Possess the learning skills that allow them to continue studying in a way that will have to be largely self-directed or autonomous.

Generals

CG1 Analyze and synthesize ideas, data and content.

CG2 Organize and plan resources and people.

CG3 Work as a team and lead.

- Work and autonomous study

Development plan

The course follows a process where, with the basic and mandatory readings, theoretical elements of information management combined with the proposal of concrete activities of continuous evaluation are presented, such as the development of a research project and the compilation of records of a database related to the research proposal made. The aforementioned research proposal can be referred to aspects of a doctoral thesis, a master's degree or any more limited research proposal that the student is interested in working within the framework of an academic master's degree. A series of recommended materials are proposed, which may or may not be used, since the course is based on developing a research proposal of its own and on the development of a collection of bibliographic records covering different areas related to the research topic chosen by each student of the master.

Date	Description:	Face-to-face activity	HTP (2) (Hours)	Autonomous Work activity	HTNP (Hours)
