Methodology

The new trends in education and the digital world in which we live, where we have at our disposal countless resources that allow us to obtain information about what we want, forces us to rethink how it must be a training process. For this reason, the subject is raised from an innovative perspective in which the expository tasks by the teachers will be reduced to the minimum necessary, giving prominence to students, who are those who really have to create their learning from the orientation and the trainer's guide.

One of the main objectives is to develop a flipped classroom methodology, in which the class sessions will be used to work and deepen the knowledge that the student will have at his disposal in the virtual campus, and that will need to have reviewed before. of the classes.

Teaching methodologies

Training activity	Hours allocated to training activity	On-site percentage
Master Lessons	15	100%
Documentation reading	41	0%
Argumentation of practical cases	10	100%
Individual and group practical work	30	50%
Students exhibition	5	100%
Research reading and analysis	20	0%
Individual and group tutoring	5	100%
Writing and exposition of research projects	20	30%
Evaluation activities	4	100%

Issues to consider in case of confinement:

- In the event that face-to-face teaching is not possible due to a situation of confinement or similar, the sessions will be broadcast by videoconference respecting the same established schedule. The different options of the videoconferencing tool will be used so that the sessions can remain participatory and can perform the same tasks planned for the classroom. The seeions can be recorded.
